High Point 2010

Today I want to get a little more detailed and show you some more highlights from High Point Market. All the pics here are of companies, small and large, that were doing something beautiful and interesting. Many of them are to the trade only, but you can find their furnishings and artwork through their dealer network on their website. These are the sources, baby, and most of these items have never been seen at the retail level before. Enjoy!
